EASTERN APICULTURAL SOCIETY OF NORTH AMERICA, INC.

VOL. 8

NO. 6

DECEMBER 1980

PHILEMON J. HEWITT, JR.

It was with deep shock and sorrow that the EAS Board of Directors learned of the untimely death of their fellow officer, Philemon J. Hewitt, Jr., 63, of Richards Road, in the Northfield section of Litchfield, Connecticut, on Saturday, October 4, 1980.

He was born in New Canaan, a son of the late Philemon J. and Estella (Feindel) Hewitt and lived in Northfield most of his life. He was a member and Deacon of the Northfield Congregational Church.

Phil Hewitt was raised on a farm and was very knowledgeable about plants, animals and poultry. He started beekeeping in 1935, was a self-employed beekeeper with approximately 100 colonies and a former state bee inspector.

He was a Life member of the Eastern Apicultural Society of North America, a member of the American Beekeeping Federation for 31 consecutive years, a past president and member of the Connecticut Beekeepers Association and was the editor of the quarterly Connecticut Honey Bee Newsletter.

Phil was a past EAS Director from Connecticut, the society's Historian and editor of the bi-monthly EAS Journal, a member of Apimondia, International Beekeeping Federation and had traveled throughout Europe, Russia, Australia and most of the United States. He was author of several published books.

He leaves a brother, Reopard F. Hewitt of Winsted; three sisters, Miss Priscilla M. Hewitt of Northfield, Miss Alice J. Hewitt of Southbury and Mrs. George (Rosemary) Farnsworth of Norfolk, and a nephew.

Private funeral and burial services were held at the convenience of the family. A memorial service was held at 2 p.m. on Saturday, October 18th at the Northfield Congregational Church with the Rev. David T. Taylor, pastor officiating.

Phil Hewitt gave much of his time and energy for the betterment of EAS and the Connecticut Beekeepers Association. He looked forward to each of the EAS Board meetings and Conferences with great interest and enthusiasm.

The EAS Board of Directors extend their deepest sympathy to the Hewitt family, for this dedicated and kind gentleman who was loved and will be greatly missed.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Northfield Congregational Church, Litchfield, Connecticut 06759.

THAT'S WHAT I CALL A FRIEND

On whose handclasp is a little tighter, One whose smile is a little brighter; One whose deeds are a little whiter, That's what I call a friend! One who will lend as quickly as he'll borrow, One who is the same today as tomorrow, One who will share your joy and sorrow, That's what I call a friend! One whose thoughts are a little cleaner, One whose mind is a little keener, One who avoids those things that are meaner, That's what I call a friend! One when you're gone who will miss you sadly, One who will welcome you back again gladly, One who though angered will not speak madly, That's what I call a friend! One who is always willing to aid you, One whose advice has always paid you, One who defends when others flayed you, That's what I call a friend! One who has been fine when life seemed rotten, One whose ideals you have not forgotten, One who has given you more than he's gotten, That's what I call a friend!

26TH ANNUAL EAS CONFERENCE AUG. 13-16, 1980, BURLINGTON, VERMONT

Beautiful Burlington, Vermont was the scene of the 26th Annual EAS Conference. Enthusied beekeepers (580) and friends from 22 States and Canada met to take in the teachings by the entire region's apicultural experts who gathered on the "Green Mountain" Campus.

The Conference was preceded by a 3-day Beekeeping Short Course under the supervision of Dr. Dewey M. Caron, University of Maryland, assisted by Melanie Odium and Dr. Bob Berthold. Thirty one persons took the course which was well received and will be continued in N.J.

On Wednesday evening, the happy conferees were entertained by a concert of fiddling music, singing of old Vermont songs and much more. While 29 of EAS's Association's delegates met for their annual meeting to discuss various problems they were encountering in their home states or provinces. John Tardie requested Jack Matthienius conduct the meeting.

Thursday morning, EAS President, John Tardie called the session to order. A moment of silence was held for three departed members, Hugh Macleod, Canada, S.E. "Mac" McGregor, Arizona and W.A. "Steve" Stephen from Ohio.

After the invocation and welcoming speeches were given, Dr. Dewey M. Caron, Dept. of Entomology, University of Maryland gave a talk about the "Production of Superior Quality Queens by the Hobby Beekeepers." The Professional Apiculturists meeting was held for the apicultural experts and bee inspectors in attendance.

Roberta J. Glatz, a teacher beekeeper from Laura Bush, New York, gave an interesting talk about "Beekeeping Folklore Thru the Ages."

A movie, "The Secret of the Hive," a high suspense drama, Japanese B Film, was presented.

Four bus loads of excited women took off for a very scenic drive into the mountain area to have lunch atop Stowe Mountain. Grace Hill distributed bottles of pure Vermont maple syrup to each of the ladies.

The buses continued on to the Von Trapp Lodge in Stowe to visit with Maria Von Trapp, the 76 year old singer on whose life, the "Sound of Music" was based. They visited her shops and some received her autograph. Unfortunately, one of the buses broke down and that bus did not get to go to the lodge.

Buses also left for a tour of the Shelburne Museum which was a sprawling complex. Unfortunately, it was not possible to get to see everything in such a brief period of time.

At the Conference site, the guest speaker for the "Apothecary Meeting" was Bob Brooks.

At Shelburne Farms, afternoon workshops were conducted by the following: "Meat Making", Dr. Dewey Caron; "Major Honey Bee Diseases", Jack Matthienius; "Opening Colonies of Bees", and a "Bee Beard" by Roland Smith.

Early in the afternoon, the EAS Board of Directors met in the Webb Mansion at Shelburne Farm and held their Annual EAS Board of Directors meeting in the elegant dining room.

Because the Directors were meeting in the Dining Room, it was off limits to the rest of the visitors who were touring the luxury mansion. It was one of the nicest atmospheres for the Directors meeting in many a year.

All afternoon and evening, activities were held at Shelburne Farms, on the shores of beautiful Lake Champlain, and the Home of the world-famous Shelburne Museum. Unfortunately, a torrential rainstorm developed which drowned out any outdoor lingering.

A cash bar was opened up at 5:00 p.m. just about the time when the "heavens opened up" drawing all of the participants into the barns where tables and chairs were set up for the evening's barbecue. The rain never let up for a minute the entire time.

However, inside a delicious roast beef barbecue was served to 550 hungry conferees who gathered in the main barn which is used all the time for square dancing. The barbecue was followed by colorful square dancing which was enjoyed by participants and onlookers alike.

Dr. Eric Erickson, from the University of Wisconsin gave a delightful talk about "Electricity and the Honey Bee". He said humidity plays a very important role in this.

Ralph Gamber from the Dutch Gold Honey Co., Lancaster, PA, gave a report about honey adulteration which is a very serious problem for the beekeeping industry today. It is really serious and rough on both the beekeeper and consumers. He asked beekeepers to purchase suspected honey and send samples of them to be analyzed.

Major Jurgen Von Gredow, Ph.D. from Walter Reed Army Institute of Research was unable to be present and Ann Harmon of Maryland substituted with a report on "Bee Venom Therapy to Date."

EAS President, John Tardie called the 26th Annual Business Meeting to order. A moment of silence for three departed members was observed. Liz Rodrigues gave her annual reports.

The Sites Committee gave the following report: In 1981, August 5-8 at Rutgers, New Brunswick, N.J. In 1982, Aug. 4-7 at the University of West Virginia at Morgantown. The body of the membership approved the West Virginia site.

Invitations to host EAS Conferences have been received and tentatively accepted as follows: In 1983, the University of Maine at Orono; in 1984, the University of Rhode Island at Kingston; in 1985, in Pennsylvania (site is being selected); and in 1986, at the University of Delaware at Newark.

Art Holmes reported we have 38 living life members and 3 deceased. Two new ones will be added at the Banquet tonight.

David Hampton read six resolutions which were adopted.

Matt Scott of Maine read the following: EAS PESTICIDE POLICY which was adopted by the body of the EAS membership:

1) That EAS approach the problem of pesticides and their affect on honey bees on a state-by-state or province-by-province basis, through the state or provincial regulatory agency.

2) That EAS support state or provincial beekeeping associations, when appropriate in situations of pesticides related to honey bee problems.

3) That EAS encourage the educational exchange between growers (agriculturalists) and beekeepers.

4) That EAS support the Integrated Pest Management (IPM) concept, and encourage individuals as well as Federal and State agencies to implement such activity now.

Walt Wilson, Chairman of the nominating Committee presented the following slate of officers who were elected by the majority of the body of the EAS membership: EAS President, Dr. Rod Roberts, NJ; 1st Vice Pres., Mike Valosin, NJ; 2nd Vice Pres., Earl Cochran, W. VA (since succeeded by Dr. James Amrine of W. VA); Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Liz Rodrigues, NJ; Historian, Philemon Hewitt, CT (since succeeded by Eleanor Hendry, RI). Two Directors were elected to fill two unexpired terms through 1982, they were: Eleanor Hendry of RI and Grace Hill of VT.

Dr. Rod Roberts, 1981 EAS President, presented a brief, color slide-talk show encouraging the conferees to consider attending the Aug. 5-8th New Jersey EAS Conference.

Mr. Hal Neiman, Green Grown Products, of Santa Monica, Calif., gave a talk on the "Production and Marketing of Propolis, Pollen and Royal Jelly." Norman Bantz, a beekeeper from Tuckahoe, New York, followed him and gave a talk on "Adventures in Hobby Beekeeping".

During Friday afternoon the following Workshops were conducted: 1) "Honey Cookery" by Bess Clarke, Canton, PA; 2) "Preparing Honey for Show" by Dr. Roger Morse, Cornell Univ., Ithaca, New York; 3) "Beeswax Uses" Dr. Robert Berthold, Delaware Valley College, Doylestown, PA; and 4) "Candles by Jo Anne Wojcik of Lambertville, New Jersey.

The following Commercial Exhibitors had their wares displayed and added much to the atmosphere of the Conference: Tom Ross, Ross Rounds; R.K. Sauls, Apiary Supply Co., Mass.; Ernie's Apiaries, MD; William T. Maxant, Maxant Industries; Hive Fountain, James R. Mentzer, PA; Bob Berthold; Sylvia Smith Bowman, Mass.; Simon Apiary, Young Cho, New York; John J. Sullivan, CT; Dadant & Sons, Carl Hausknecht, Waverly, NY; and Brad Root & Bill Sondermann of the A.I. Root Co., Medina, Ohio. Exhibitors space will be available at the New Jersey EAS Conference at $5 per running foot. Your patronage is welcomed.

The Annual Banquet is always the delightful part of the Conference and this year's was no exception. President Tardie thanked everyone who

CONSULTING SERVICE STARTED

Beekeepers, crop pollinators, pesticide applicators, naturalists, teachers and others will now be able to call upon the educational programs and materials offered by a new, full-time consulting service operated by Lawrence J. Connor.

Connor has operated BEEKEEPING EDUCATION SERVICE since 1975 on a part time basis, and will expand the current slide/tape offerings to a full service consulting operation.

Upon completion of a Ph.D. in pollination research at Michigan State University in 1972, Connor served as Extension Bee Specialist at Ohio State University until 1976. While at OSU he developed several new programs, such as the Commercial Beekeeping Management Workshop, as well as expanded existing programs, such as the beekeeping correspondence course.

Since 1976 Connor has been President of Genetic Systems, Inc., of LaBelle, Florida, the first large scale queen instrumental insemination operation. As a result Connor will provide training in instrumental insemination techniques and advise in bee breeding matters.

"But the primary focus will be on educational programs, particularly with local, regional and state associations", Connor explains. "These organizations are the ideal place for new beekeepers to learn more about local bee conditions, or for a pesticide applicator to meet with beekeepers. But many of these groups are having trouble finding suitable programs for their meetings, and usable materials for their public educational goals", Connor adds. "I will attempt to meet these needs on a group by group basis, as well as provide multi-media materials. For example, some associations may wish to purchase a library of slide/tape sets, while another group might wish to sponsor a one or two day BEEKEEPER UPDATE SEMINAR where I would provide a tailor-made program which was worked out in advance with the association officers", Connor suggests.

Relocated in central Connecticut from Florida, Connor invites individuals and groups to write or phone for additional information. "I welcome any chance to correspond with interested beekeepers or non-beekeepers, and I will gladly explain my fees during the initial visit, if a fee is even necessary. Where materials already exist, the charges would be minimal," Connor states.

The mailing address is: Beekeeping Education Service, P.O. Box 817, Cheshire, Connecticut 06410. The phone is area code 203 number 271-0155.

Wyoming, talked about "Islelectric Focusing as a Means of Identifying Races of Honeybees". He said that U.S. has no purebred stocks of bees anywhere. They are genetically mixed and as many as eight variants can be in one hive.

VARROA MITE - Dr. Roger Morse, Prof. of Apiculture, Cornell University, Ithaca, New York, spoke of the Varro Mite as being worse than any of the Foulbrood diseases, and all means available should be used to prevent it from coming into the United States. There is no remedy for the Varroa Mite so far.

After lunch on Saturday, the conferees bid their friends goodbye, and departed from home, until they meet again at the New Jersey EAS Conference August 5-8, 1981.

Please car pool and attend the 1981 EAS Conference with a friend. There will be something for everybody and prices to fit all pocketbooks.

Liz Rodrigues, EAS Secretary

FINDING THE QUEEN

Many beekeepers have difficulty finding the Queen, whether it is for brood equalization, or whether it is a failing Queen that needs to be replaced. Fortunately, there are only two times that are necessary to find the Queen at all. All other determinations, as far as her performance is concerned, are made by appearance of the brood, including the number of eggs and the pattern of the brood.

It is most difficult to find Queens in Caucasian colonies of bees. There is no apparent reason, except they are just harder to find.--Glen Stanley

Various beekeeping suppliers present at the Conference donated prizes which were chanced off. Dr. Richard Taylor and Tom Ross sold the chances and turned in $383 which was donated to BEE VENMON THERAPY. They were given a round of applause for their efforts.

J.J. HAMBLETON AWARD SPEAKER - Dr. Jonathan W. White, President of Honeytech, Inc., Navasota, Texas, and Secretary-Treasurer of the Honey Industry Council became the 8th recipient of this coveted award given to an outstanding research scientist. He was introduced by Dr. Roger Morse and spoke about the honey adulteration problem in the United States which is one of the greatest problems in beekeeping. Dr. White was instrumental in finding a way to detect adulteration of honey.

President Tardie gave the following Conference Attendance, state-by-state, including 22 states and 2 provinces of Canada for a total of 580: CA 6, CT 39, DE 4, FL 2, LA 1, ME 13, MD 31, MA 109, MI 7, MS 1, NH 8, NJ 69, NY 63, NC 2, OH 18, PA 50, TX 1, RI 32, WV 3, WY 1, VT 74, VA 18, GA 1 and Canada 28.

John Tardie introduced incoming EAS President, Dr. Rad Roberts of New Jersey who presented John Tardie with the Presidents plaque which is given for dedicated service in conducting the EAS Conference. Dr. Roberts extended an invitation to everyone to attend the New Jersey EAS Conference Aug. 5-8, 1981 at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, New Jersey.

EAS STUDENT APICULTURAL AWARD - Richard Nunamaker, recipient of the 1980 EAS Student Apiculture Award from the University of Wisconsin, was presented $100 and a Certificate for being the outstanding student in apiculture in a recognized college. This award is given annually and Mr. Nunamaker will address the conference Saturday morning.

Following the evening's program, entertainment was provided by Danny Gore and ballroom dancing. Ladies attending the Banquet received miniature orchids.

Edward Weiss, author of "The Queen & I" from Wilton, Conn., was the first speaker on Saturday morning. He spoke about "Retiring to Hobby Beekeeping". He encouraged beekeepers to attend the conferences as a means of boosting their spirits and to find out the latest information about what is going on in beekeeping.

EAS Student Apiculture Award, Richard Nunamaker of the University of

made the Conference possible, with special thanks to Charles Mraz, Melanie Odium, Dewey Caron, Bob Berthold, Grace Hill, Rick Drutchas, Chris Inglis, Todd Hardie and Michael Palmer.

Kathy Timidaiski, Colts Neck, N.J., the 1980 NJ State Honey Queen was recognized and gave a brief talk. Mr. Roy Wiseman, 88, of Elk Garden, W. VA was the oldest person at the Conference. He has kept bees for nearly 80 years and we were delighted to have him with us.

Congratulations were extended to EAS's dedicated Dennis and Elaine Keeney, Roversford, PA, who were married on August 9 and spent their honeymoon attending the Conference. Art Holmes presented Life Membership ribbons and cards to Arthur Strang, MD, and John Tardie, out-going EAS President. Art explained there are two ways of becoming a Life Member: (1) by contributing your $100, or (2) by earning your way in by serving as EAS President.

1980 Honey Show - Dick & Betty Corrigan reported that this year's show was very successful with 77 persons from 11 states and 2 provinces of Canada preparing a total of 226 entries. One person, with only one entry in the entire show, won a Silver Tray award. So, there is much hope for everybody.

President Tardie presented Dick and Betty Corrigan with a plaque in appreciation for their dedication in handling the Honey Shows. The following are the recipients for top honors in the 1980 EAS Honey Show:

1. THE DADANT & SONS AWARD - for Beeswax - Suzanne Wojcik, Lambertville, NJ - Silver Tray.
2. THE A.I. ROOT CO. AWARD - for Comb Honey - Harold Greene, Palmerton, PA - Silver Tray.
3. THE SPEEDY BEE AWARD - for Extracted Honey - Eloise Davis, Fairfax, VA - Silver Tray.
4. THOMAS E. RANEY AWARD - for Honey Cookery - Roberta Glatz, Feura Bush, NY - Silver Tray.
5. PRESIDENT'S AWARD - for Chunk Honey - Sanford Moss, Newport, Mass. - Silver Tray.
6. DIRECTOR'S AWARD - Gadget Show - Norman Bantz, Yonkers, NY - Silver Tray.

BEEKEEPING EDUCATION SERVICE

Has relocated in Central Connecticut to establish full time consulting service in beekeeping programs and materials.

Since late 1975, I have offered full color 35mm slides and slide/tape set for sale. This service will continue, with plans to dramatically increase our listings. For example, sets on queen production and bees and pesticides will be released in 1981.

But, our newest service will be BEEKEEPER UPDATE SEMINARS. If you want to learn the latest information about specific topics — we can present them, or will find someone who can. We will work with association officers or other individuals to meet the needs of each group for a one or two day program. We invite your letter or call. The only limits are those on our collective imaginations.

We will send you our current price list if you send us your self-addressed stamped envelope. We are now offering 29% off certain groups of sets.

Are you losing a fourth of your honey crop to nosema?

You may be if you're not controlling it with Fumidil-B.

Nosema is a disease of adult honey bees. Extremely difficult to detect visually, it can steal 10-25% of yield and you may never notice the cause.

Almost all colonies are infected with nosema, and severely infected colonies have difficulty surviving the winter.

FUMIDIL-B CONTROLS NOSEMA. It has proven consistently effective in over 13 years of usage worldwide.

Fail medicated feeding with Fumidil-B costs far less than replacing weak or dead colonies.
